1. Market of the Month – Peru

Market Overview

The Peruvian economy continues to outperform its regional neighbors and most other global economies. In addition to a robust macro-economic environment, sales of U.S. products in Peru are also being aided by improve market access condition. On February 1, 2009, the U.S. Peru Trade Promotion Agreement (commonly referred to as the U.S.-Peru Free Trade Agreement, or FTA) entered into force. The agreement enhances the overall commercial and investment climate by eliminating tariffs on many goods, accelerating the customs clearance process for U.S. imports, and strengthening the protection on intellectual property rights.

Some of the best prospects for U.S. exports include:

Mining Industry Equipment, Plastic Materials and Resins, Construction Equipment, Industrial Chemicals, Oil and Gas Field Machinery, Pumps, Valves & Compressors, Pollution Control Equipment, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Equipment, Computers and Peripherals, and Security and Safety Equipment. To find agents, distributors, joint-venture partners or end-users in these or other industry sectors, contact George Martinez or Sandra Campbell.

2. U.S. Secretary of Commerce Gary Locke Visits Tampa

Secretary of Commerce Gary Locke held a town hall meeting in Tampa, FL on Friday, August 7, 2009. The event “Trade: Leading the Way to Economic Growth and Recovery” was an outstanding success.

Hosted by the Tampa Port Authority and organized by Sandra Campbell and George Martinez, Director of the Tampa Bay U.S. Export Assistance Center, the event was attended by more than 75 business executives and government leaders of the Tampa Bay region, including U.S. House Representative Kathy Castor.

At the event, Secretary Locke outlined five priorities targeted to improve trade fundamentals: These are:

1. Enhancing trade promotion and support for U.S. exporters.
2. Pursuing visa reform.
3. Reviewing U.S. export controls.
4. Strengthening international property protections.
5. Promoting better inter-governmental cooperation.

He also described how the economic recovery efforts of the Obama Administration has stabilized the economic crisis.

During the event, the Secretary presented an export achievement certificate to Amalie Oil Company. Amalie Oil is a very successful exporting company who exports to over 70 countries and whose export sales is 40% percent of their total sales. The Secretary also presented a Certificate of Appreciation to Richard Wainio, Director and CEO of the Tampa Port Authority, for the port's steady and significant contribution to trade, economic development and the creation of thousands of jobs.

Following the awards presentation, the secretary took a wide range of questions, from trade with Cuba to intellectual property rights issues with China and changing visa rules to make it easier for foreign buyers and foreign students to obtain visas.

3. Amalie Oil Company Receives Export Achievement Certificate

During the town hall meeting at the Tampa Port Authority on August 7, 2009, U.S. Secretary of Commerce Gary Locke presented the Amalie Oil Company with the U.S. Department of Commerce's Export Achievement Certificate for their outstanding success in opening new overseas markets. Based in Tampa, Amalie Oil Company is a manufacturer of lubricating gear oils, engine treatment oils, gas and diesel lubricants and synthetic oils.

Using their extensive expertise and perseverance, Dennis Madden, Sr. Vice President of Sales and Marketing, and Manuel Bonet, Director of International Sales, of Amalie Oil Company aggressively pursued challenging markets in the Middle East, Latin America, Asia, Central and Eastern Europe and in Eurasia. With the help of George Martinez, Director of the Tampa Bay U.S. Export Assistance Center (USEAC) of the U.S. Dept. of Commerce, and most of all, 100% commitment to achieving success, the firm has opened new markets in 70 countries and recently was successful in opening the Ecuadorian market with the assistance of the Tampa Bay U.S. Export Assistance Center and the Commercial Service at the U.S. Embassy in Quito. Amalie Oil is truly an international-minded company whose export sales are an astonishing 40% of their total sales.

The Export Achievement Certificate (EAC) was created in 2001 to recognize small and medium-sized enterprises that have successfully entered the international marketplace for the first time or that have successfully entered a new market. The award program is designed to showcase the important role that exporting plays in our national economy, and to highlight the contributions made by exporters to their local communities.

4. Certificate of Appreciation for Achievement in Trade to Tampa Port Authority

U.S. Secretary of Commerce Gary Locke presented Richard Wainio, Director and Chief Executive Officer of the Tampa Port Authority, the U.S. Department of Commerce's Certificate of Appreciation at the Town Hall Meeting on Trade on August 7, 2009, for the Port's steady and significant contributions to trade, economic development and the creation of thousands of jobs.

The Port of Tampa contributes nearly $8 billion to Tampa Bay's economy and is responsible for over 96,000 direct and indirect jobs. Port-related income and consumption exceeds $6 billion, and impact area businesses and workers who pay more than $571 million in state and local taxes. Mr. Wainio and his team at the Tampa Port authority have worked tirelessly to expand the capacity of the Port as well as to keep and grow jobs in the Tampa Bay Area.

Secretary Locke thanked the management and staff of the Tampa Port Authority for their impressive accomplishments.

The Certificate of Appreciation for Achievement in Trade (COA) was created in 2002 to recognize foreign business partners, trade associations, U.S. government agencies and other qualified recipients for supporting U.S. export development and for creating opportunities for U.S. businesses through trade.

5. National District Export Council Conference

The National District Export Council (DEC) an organization of business executives appointed by the Secretary of Commerce will be sponsoring the annual DEC conference from November 3-5, 2009. This premier international trade and export promotion event will be held in Washington, D.C. This year, the conference will feature “Global Competitiveness and the Impact on U.S. Exports”. Some highlights include keynotes by U.S. Department of Commerce Secretary Gary Locke, plenary sessions by Industry and Federal trade experts, as well as one-on-one meetings with Foreign Service Officers. Congressional representatives will also be on hand. For more information on this event, please visit <http://www.deconference.com/>

6. Singapore: Warning for Exporters

If you receive a credit card order from Singapore, check its legitimacy before you ship. The U.S. Commercial Service at the American Embassy in Singapore has received multiple complaints from U.S. merchants reporting fraudulent credit card transactions committed by companies or individuals purporting to be in Singapore. The initial investigation of the fraudulent transactions has revealed that the shipments are actually being sent to freight forwarders in Singapore and diverted to unknown consignees in neighboring countries.

For more information on the warning signs and how to protect your company, please visit: http://www.buyusa.gov/singapore/en/warning_credit_card_fraud.html

7. Newly-Revised EU Eco-Label

The EU Eco-label is a voluntary label which is awarded to the most environmentally friendly products on the EU market. The aim is to encourage manufacturers to design products that have a reduced environmental impact throughout their life cycle, from manufacturing to disposal. US companies with eco-friendly products should be aware that the eco-label is just one of the European Sustainable Consumption & Production Policies, which aim at reducing the negative impact of consumption and production on the environment, health, climate and natural resources.
